HOTEL LOBBY GLEANINGS

THOMAS H. WATTS, OF ALABAMA, IS IN INDIANAPOLIS.

He Talks of Conditions in the South at This Time-Other Visitors at the Hotels.

Thomas H. Watts, a prominent lawyer and Democrat of Montgomery, Ala., was at the Grand Hotel last night. His father was colonel of the Seventeenth Alabama Regiment at one time during the war. He was afterward attorney general of the Southern Confederacy and later was war Governor of Alabama. Thomas H. Watts was a member of the convention that framed a new constitution for Alabama in 1991. This constitution practically eliminated the negro from politics in Alabama. "I should not be surprised," said Mr. Watts last night, "if the Alabama Republican state convention nominates a Democrat for Governor to-morrow." He thinks the convention will reason that if a Democrat is nominated he will receive the votes of those Democrats who are dissatisfied with their own nominee and will also receive the votes of the Populistic element. It will be further reasoned, of course, that the 25,000 or 30,000 white Republican voters of the State will support the ticket, though the head of it be a Democrat.

"In Alabama," said Mr. Watts, "we do not give the negro his political rights because we do not care to be ruled by him. We accord him his full civil rights, however. In our State the limit of taxation is 65 cents on each $100. Thirty cents of this amount goes to the education of the children of the State. The colored children share equally in this. The only distinction we make is to put them in separate "The Endowment Rank up to this time has paid over $18,000,000 in benefits to widows and orphans of deceased Knights of Pythias." he said last night. "The deficiency of $559,000, which was discovered by the insurance commissioner May 31, 1901, has been entirely paid, and the Rank does not owe a dollar to any one. The increase in membership under the management of C. F. S. Neal has been greater than ever before in the history of the Rank. This has been accomplished without disposing of any of the securities held by the Endowment Rank as a reserve fund. The payment of every certificate is guaranteed by the Supreme Lodge, whose assets exceed $17,000,000. The benefits alone for the quarter ending June 30, this year, amounted to $238,000. Indiana was in the lead in the United States during that quarter for sections organized.'

Matters of Importance Discussed at the Meeting. At the September meeting of the executive committee of the Indianapolis Christian Endeavor Union, held last night in the Seventh Presbyterian Church, Elm and Cedar streets, a programme of services to be conducted by S. Mr. Gordon became acquainted with the Indianapolis Endeavorers at the last State convention, when he conducted the "quiet hour" services, and his visit to Indianapolis is on the invitafor at least six of these meetings. The other business transacted by the committee consisted of the hearing of reports from the chairmen of the various committees and a discussion of the prospects of better attendance at meetings in the future now that all the churches are again open. The committee on membership reported the addition of three new societies and that the growth in membership during the past month has been more than one hundred.

A letter was received from Charles J. Orbison, attorney for the Anti-saloon League, reporting the progress of the persons who are securing remonstrances against the licensing of saloons. Mr. Orbison said he expected to see at least thirtyfive saloons in the First ward driven out of business by the remonstrances now being circulated. He predicted that one hundred saloons of the city would be refused licenses when applied for, owing to the work of the league during September. The report of the finance committee showed that the organization is in good financial condition. The chairman of the visiting committee recommended that the Endeavor societies follow the plan of other church organizations and visit the Door of Hope and similar institutions and conduct

On all sides now it is seen that he must be tried in orderly process of law as much because the community needs to make a new reputation for itself as for any other reason. The difficulty is going to be when the question of a change of venue from the county is raised. The change cannot be refused if demanded, and the desire to vindicate Vigo county may be thwarted for that reason. It is possible that the attorney the court may appoint to defend Alexander will not ask for change of venue. There has been a good deal of talk of an attorney having been retained by some colored people, and much has been printed about his movements, but the colored residents of Terrre Haute are repudiating him and saying he has not been given a retaining fee. GOVERNOR DURBIN HAS ISSUSD HIS PROCLAMATION.

Oct. 24 Will Be Celebrated in This State-The Programme that Will Be Followed.

Friday, Oct. 24, will be Arbor day in Indi ana. This date was fixed by Governor Durbin in his proclamation, and will be observed, particularly in the schools. The Governor's proclamation is as follows:

"Following a custom which has increased its adoption, I hereby designate Oct. 24, 1902, as Arbor day. "The rapid disappearance of our forests s awakening the public conscience to the fact that the time is present when urgent, intelligent and practical efforts should be made to restore, in some measure, at least, Mr. Storms, on account of his popularity, but which have been swept away to pro the generous gifts which nature bestowed, will make a great race. Mr. Wade travels | vide for the constantly increasing demands of a constantly increasing population. "In the celebration of Arbor day the schools of the State should manifest special interest by the introduction of appropriate essays, songs and recitations, as well as by the planting of trees, shrubs and vines. Children should also be advised of the necessity for the protection and multi plication of song birds by all practical "In the planting of trees on school grounds it is suggested that, among others, one should be in memory of the late President McKinley, and another as a memorial to the late Governor Mount, whose great nature was in harmony with the woods and fields, in which he spent the larger part of his honorable life. "The people have a vital concern in the propagation of forestry, and I earnestly recommend that Arbor day be made an occasion for the further beautifying of public grounds and highways, thus bequeathing to succeeding generations a heritage of immeasureable value.'

Arbor day has been made the subject of monograph that W. H. Freeman, secretary of the Board of Forestry, has just ssued. The book is illustrative of the beauties of Indiana trees and contains many pictures of natural trees. It also shows in contrast barren school yards and those that have been made beautiful by the growth of trees. The cover of the book contains a colored picture of the magnificent maple that stands near the entrance to Crown Hill cemetery. In concluding, the following programme is suggested as available for use at Arbor day plantings: Devotional exercises. Song, Scripture reading and prayer, song; reading procla-mation and other formal documents; songs; arbor and bird day. #### HUSBAND'S MISCONDUCT.

Mary Weil's Charges Against Frederick Weil.

Mary Weil yesterday filed suit against her husband, Frederick Weil, for divorce. She says she was a widow and had twelve acres of garden from which she made her living when she married Weil, Jan. 9, 1902. She had two children. The complaint says the plaintiff married Weil, thinking he would be a help to her, but, on the contrary, he refused to work, cursed her and would not speak to her children. She avers that six weeks after their marriage he took her horse, valued at $75, and sold it for $50. Two months later, she says, he returned and asked to be taken back, promising to work and help her. Upon his promises, she says, she took him back and e worked for about six weeks. He then began, she says, his old manner of treatment. On Sept. 9, he again left her, taking between $45 and $50 she had saved, and has not since returned.

JUDGE WILL INVESTIGATE.

Police Magistrate Will Look Into Linn's Case.

Before Judge Stubbs decides whether he thinks William C. Linn guilty of the charge of larceny placed against him by Detective Brimm, of the Big Four Railroad, he will go to Linn's home on Elder avenue and look at the grain doors Linn is alleged to have stolen. The judge made this course known yesterday after hearing of the testimony n the case, which was postponed from Thursday. At the first trial, it was shown beyond doubt that Linn did not steal the several cars of coal alleged by Brimm, nor the forty bushels of wheat. The presence of the grain doors in Linn's yard is explained by Linn who said they were given to him by railroad men for building stalls for his coal. At the trial yesterday afternoon nearly all the witnesses testified to Linn's good character. The judge will make his decision known on Sept. 20.

The Local Vorkers Will Join the ORGANIZING WAITERS.

Seventy-five waiters and waitresses in Indianapolis have filed application for membership in the local union of the Hotel and Restaurant Waiters' National Union. National Organizer Bauman, of the union, has been in the city for a week organizing the waiters, and Sunday went to Cincinnati. where the national headquarters are located, to get a charter for the local union. Bauman says conditions of waiters in Indianapolis are worse than in any city of similar size in the country. He says he expects to do the same here as was done in Omaha. He says the wages here are about 3 a week or less and 36 seems to be maximum. Besides the low scale the waiters are required to be on duty from 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning till 9, 10 and 11 o'clock at night. In Omaha he says conditions were about the same and the union raised wages from $2.50 a week to $10, and shortened the hours to ten a day. He says the union also secured legislation limiting the hours of waitresses to sixty a week, and established a scale of $8. In Indiana he said he hoped to have like legislation enacted and place Indianapolis on a level with Omaha in wages and hours of labor. The union is opposed to tips, he said. One thus that has brought down wages in this city he says is that young men and women who attend school work at meal hours for their board or for very small wages.

BREWERS' ASSOCIATION MET.

No Action Taken Because of Crawford Fairbanks's Absence.

The Indianapolis Brewers' and Agents' Association met yesterday, but did not take up the purchases of property recently made by Crawford Fairbanks and alleged to be in violation of the agreement not to establish "brewery saloons," as Mr. Fairbanks was not in the city. This will probably be brought up at a later meeting this week. It is asserted that other brewers have also violated the agreement and those who have not expect to find out whether the agreement is effective or not.

SUMMER PLAY IS ENDED

SCHOOLS OPEN WITH AN ATTEND-

Two High Schools Are Crowded and Primaries Well Filled-Mrs. Mor-

ton's Gift to Morton School. The schools of the city opened yesterday to receive the pupils of the coming two terms of study, and, as a consequence, the parents of about 25,000 school children were busy securing books for them last night.

The attendance was somewhat greater than had been expected in some buildings and the accommodations of many were taxed to their utmost. The attendance in the higher grades was larger than formerly and the two high schools, the Manual Training and Shortridge will have some trouble in caring for all of the applicants for admission. At the Training School the portable rooms provided for emergencies will be used, and with these it is thought that ample facilities will be had when conditions adjust themselves. The lower grades, the primary departments, were not so crowded as formerly. In some schools, where the entrance of little folks of six and seven years of age is large, the expectations of the primary teachers were not realized. The school teachers explain this by saying that many parents will not send their children to school until after the State fair. In a majority of schools short sessions were held to-day, and as all of the schools will be dismissed to-morrow in order that the children may go to the fair, the work will not become irksome to the small boys until the latter part of the week.

The estimates of Superintendent of Schools Kendall on the capacity of the schools to accommodate children attending are nearly correct. He says no difficulty will be had in the central part of the city. In the suburbs the schools will be greatly overcrowded, and it will be a few days before arrangements can be made to accommodate the surplus of children. Most of the schools have been redecorated in the interior, and the outside improvements on some of them were new to the children. In the yards and lawns care has been taken to add to the attractiveness of the schools. and with the May poles and swings and other devices for amusement the children will have plenty of opportunity to enjoy the open air during the recesses between School No. 29, at College avenue and Twenty-first street, will be known hereafter as the Oliver Perry Morton school. The school has been renamed after Indiana's war Governor, and on Wednesday the new name will be commemorated by the presentation of a life-size bronze bust of Governor Morton to the school by his widow. The pupils of the school will participate in exercises in honor of the occasion, and in response to Mrs. Morton's presentation speech Andrew M. Sweeney will receive the bust on behalf of the Indianapolis public schools. A class of twelve of the older boys and girls will recite a number of Governor Morton's sayings, and will enumerate his public services to Indiana The exercises will be held in the reception hall of the school, and the principal, Miss Jane W. Bass, invites the friends and the families of the children and friends of the school to be present.

The bronze bust of the war Governor is said to be an excellent likeness, and was taken from his death mask. The plaster model of the bust was entered by the sculptor in the contest over the selection of a design for the monument to him, but was rejected by the board. It was bought by O. P. Morton, jr., and on his death given to Mrs. Morton, who now donates it to the school. Mrs. Morton says the bust will be familiar to many of the people of Indianapolis who remember Governor Morton, as it is without the beard and recalls his appearance when he was a United States senator.
